1. PROJECT SETUP

1.1. Hardware Requirements

The hardware requirements for the project are as follows:

A computer or laptop with sufficient power and memory to run a web development software and a web browser. These recommended specifications are:

- Processor: Intel Core i5 or AMD Ryzen 5 or higher
- Memory: 8 GB or higher
- Storage: 128 GB SSD or higher
- Operating System Windows 10 or higher, Mac, or Linux

A high-speed internet connection to upload, download, and access online files and resources. The recommended speed is

- Download: 25 Mbps or higher
- Upload: 10 Mbps or higher

1.2. Software Requirements

The software requirements for the project are as follows:

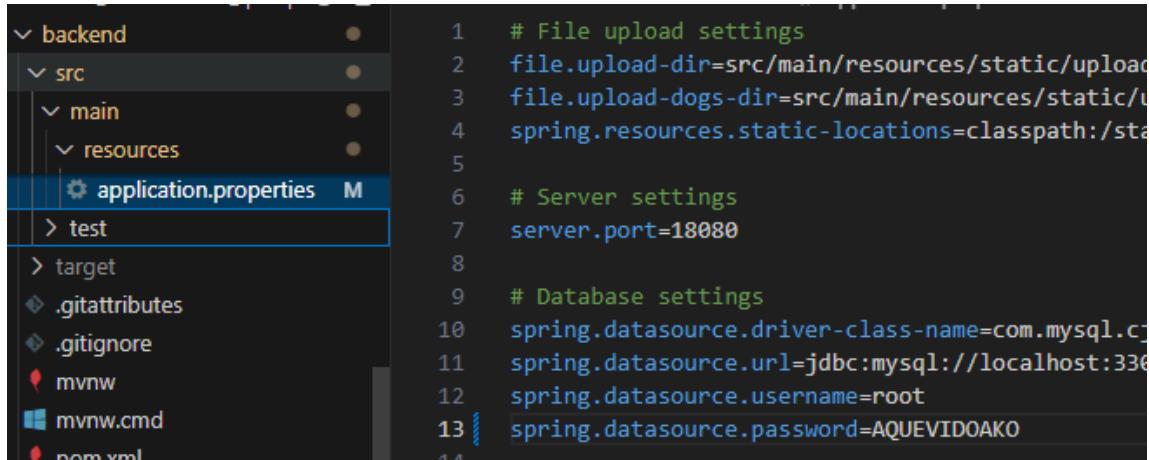

- Visual Studio Code
- JDK 21
- Apache Maven
- Angular CLI
- Node.js
- MySQL
- MySQL Workbench CE

1.3. Setup

MySQL

Firstly, we need to set up the initial MySQL database and data.

1. Find the application.properties and edit line 12 and 13 to your database's username and password respectively. This file is located in the following path: backend\src\main\resources\

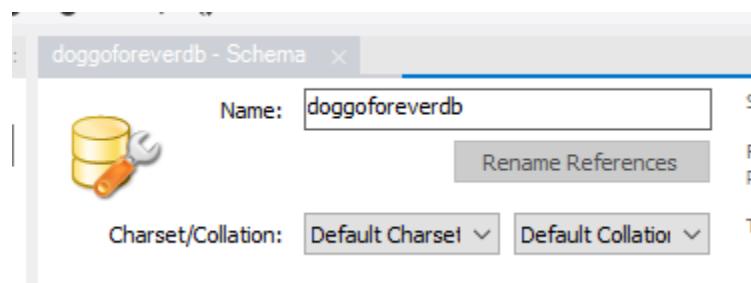

The screenshot shows a file explorer window with the following directory structure:

- backend
- src
- main
- resources
- application.properties
- test
- .gitattributes
- .gitignore
- mvnw
- mvnw.cmd
- npm.xml

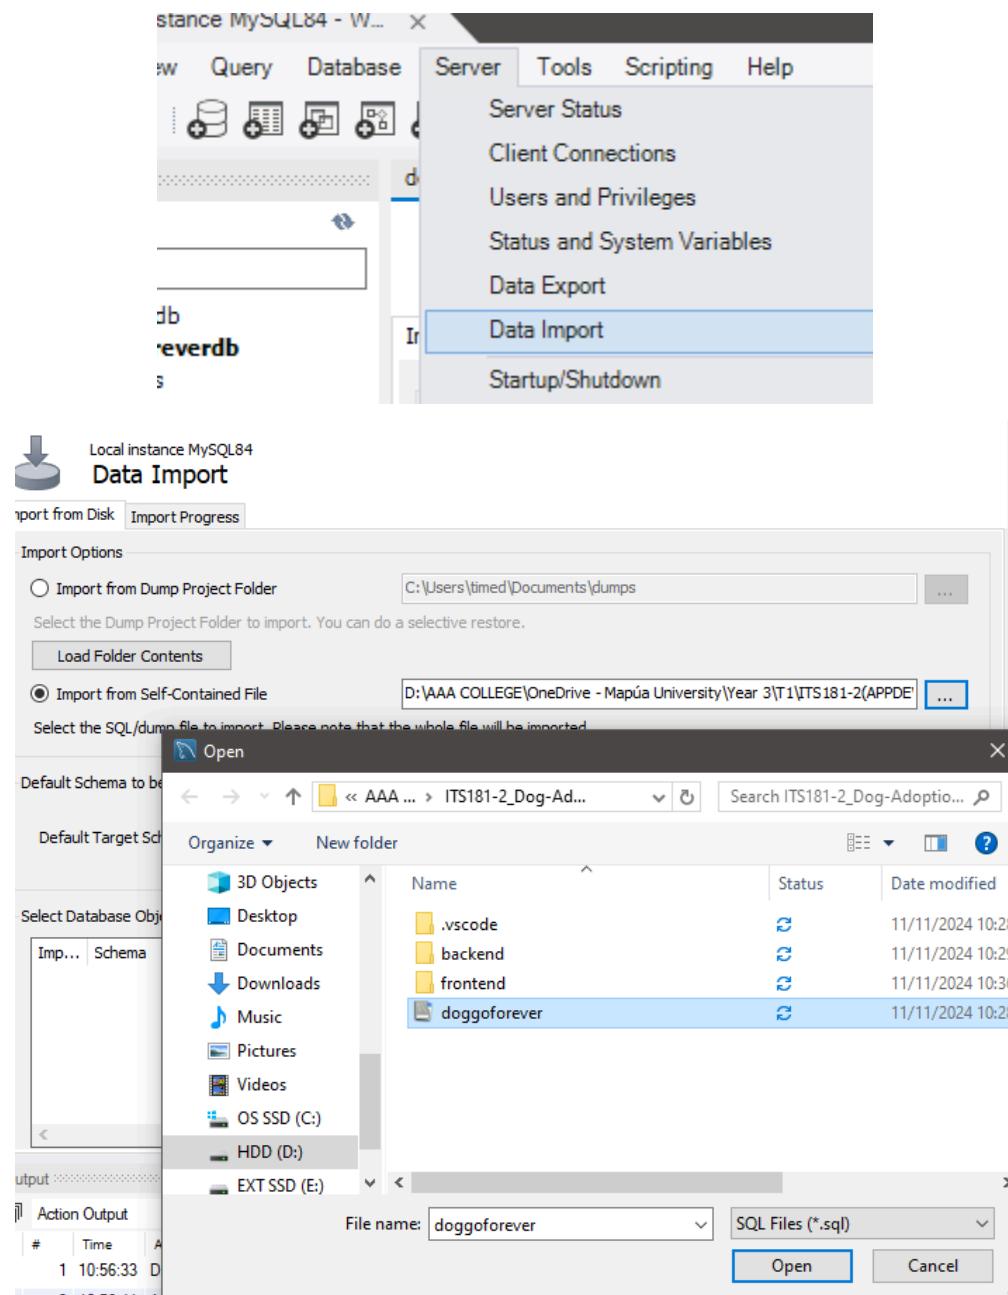

The application.properties file is open in a code editor, showing the following configuration:

1 # File upload settings
2 file.upload-dir=src/main/resources/static/upload
3 file.upload-dogs-dir=src/main/resources/static/u
4 spring.resources.staticLocations=classpath:/sta
5
6 # Server settings
7 server.port=18080
8
9 # Database settings
10 spring.datasource.driver-class-name=com.mysql.cj
11 spring.datasource.url=jdbc:mysql://localhost:3306/
12 spring.datasource.username=root
13 spring.datasource.password=AQUEVIDEOAKO

2. Next, open your MySQL Workbench CE and create a new schema named 'doggoforeverdb' Double click on the schema to make it the selected database.

3. Next, import the 'doggoforever.sql' to your MySQL Workbench CE. This sql file is located in the project folder outside of the backend and frontend folders.

Don't forget to press 'Start Import' to import the database!

INSTALLATION

For this project, you must install the following technologies:

- Java SE Development Kit 21
- Apache Maven 3.9.9
- Node.js v20.18.0

Make sure that Java has been properly set in PATH as the default JDK. You may verify the installation of the required packages by running the following commands in your terminal:

- `java --version`
- `mvn --version`
- `node --version`

BACKEND

Navigate to the backend folder by typing the command `cd path/to/backend/`. Then, run the `mvn spring-boot:run` command.

FRONTEND

Navigate to the backend folder by typing the command cd path/to/frontend/. Then, run the ng serve -o command.

If the frontend folder does not have the packages installed, run the following commands in the terminal:

npm install

npm install -g @angular/cli@17

Then, run the ng serve -o command again. The website should automatically open in your browser. If not, navigate to localhost:4200 to access the website.

2. SYSTEM FUNCTIONS

2.1. Functional Requirements

- Viewing the Homepage
 - This function allows website visitors to view the homepage of the dog adoption center. The homepage displays relevant and easy-to-access information and navigation on the website, such as:
 - Information about the organization
 - Information on how to adopt a dog
 - Information on donation and volunteering options
- Viewing the About page
 - This function displays the About page of the website and provides information about the dog adoption center and its goals. The About page includes:
 - Background, values, goals of the organization
- Sending an Inquiry Form
 - This function lets visitors send an inquiry to the center through an inquiry form. The form asks the user for the following:
 - Name
 - Email address
 - Message with a 1000-character limit

- Upon submitting the form, the website sends an email to the organization's email address with the user's details and message.
- Viewing Available Dogs for Adoption
 - This function shows the dogs currently available for adoption. Each dog has the following information:
 - Name
 - Age
 - Gender
 - Vaccination status
 - Sterilization status
 - Description
 - Image
- Submitting an Adoption Application
 - This function allows the visitors to apply to adopt a dog. Before applying, this applicant must create and sign into a user account.
 - Upon receiving an adoption application, the website automatically adds adoption data to the database. This data may be accessed through the website's admin panel. The information saved includes the following:
 - Applicant's details
 - Dog's details
 - Date and time when application was received
 - Status of the application (the default is 'Pending')
 - The website also automatically sends an email to the organization's email address containing the applicant's details and the dog's name.
- Creating a user account (applicant and admin)
 - This function allows site visitors to create user accounts. Visitors may create an applicant account using the sign-up page, while authenticated admins may create a new admin account via the admin panel.
 - Both user accounts have the same attributes:
 - Name
 - Email address
 - Password
 - Contact number
 - Address
 - Image

- Applicants may login using the sign-in page, while admins may login using the admin sign-in page.
- Upon logging in, users may access their account dashboard, which allows them to do the following:
 - View and edit account details
 - Delete their account
 - For applicants:
 - View and cancel adoption applications
 - For admins:
 - Manage dog records
 - Manage adoption records
- Managing dog records
 - This function enables the admin to create, read, update, and delete dog records using the admin dashboard.
- Managing adoption records
 - This function enables the admin to read and update adoption records using the admin dashboard.
 - Admins may edit the status of an adoption application. The following are the possible values for the status:
 - Pending
 - Accepted
 - Rejected

3. SYSTEM CODING

3.1. Programming Language

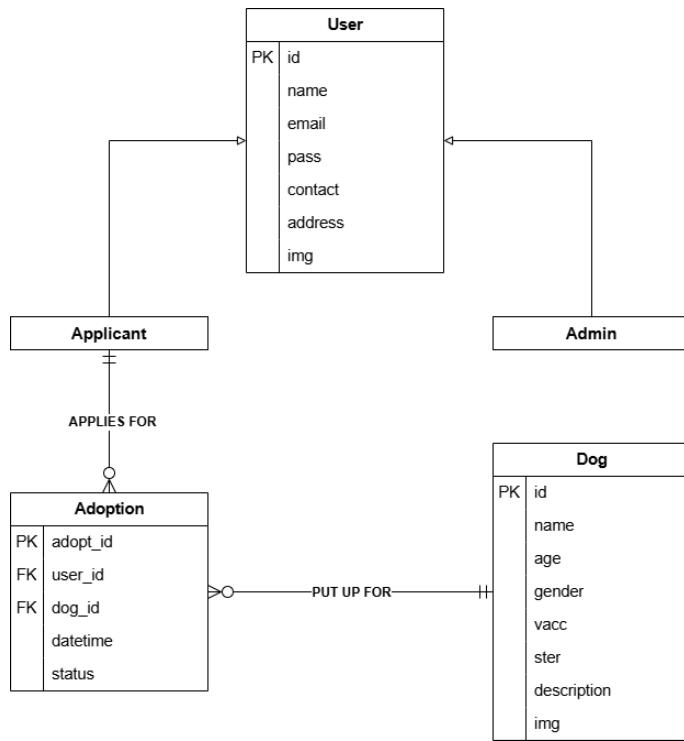

The project uses the following programming languages:

- Java
 - Java is used to program the backend logic of the web application, with Spring Boot version 3.2.11 as the framework. The backend application makes use of several dependencies to assist the development process. These include Spring Data JPA, Spring Web, MySQL Driver, Lombok, Spring Session, Java Mail Sender, and jBCrypt. The backend application follows the MVC architecture with models, repositories, services, and controllers. Models provide the structure of each entity, repositories grant access to the database, services perform the logic of the CRUD functions, and controllers map the frontend's requests to their respective service methods.

- TypeScript
 - TypeScript is used to develop the frontend of the website, with Angular CLI 17 as the framework. The Angular frontend is built using standalone components and relies on Angular's routing and dependency injection to streamline the development of each page and feature. The frontend communicates with the backend via HTTP requests, facilitated by Angular's HttpClient module. Services in the frontend provide data management and handle communication with the backend, while components display data and manage user interactions.
- HTML and CSS
 - HTML structures the content of the website, while CSS provides the styling and layout. Combined with TypeScript in the Angular framework, HTML and CSS are used to create a responsive and interactive user interface. The frontend is designed to be accessible and easy to navigate, with stylesheets tailored for each component to ensure modularity and maintainability.
- MySQL
 - SQL is used to create and manage the database schema, specifically for MySQL. The backend's database structure includes tables for Users, Dogs, and Adoptions, each connected through relationships that enable complex queries.

3.2. Database

The ERD represents the website's database and features three primary entities: User, Dog, and Adoption. The User entity contains general information about users, including id, name, email, pass (password), contact, address, and img (image). Users in this system can be classified as either Applicants or Admins. Applicants are users who apply to adopt dogs, while Admins manage the listings of dogs and oversee the adoption process.

The Dog entity represents dogs available for adoption and includes fields such as id, name, age, gender, vacc (vaccination status), ster (sterilization status), description, and img (image). Each dog can be "put up for adoption," making it eligible to be adopted by an applicant.

The Adoption entity tracks the adoption process, linking applicants with the dogs they wish to adopt. It includes fields like adopt_id, user_id, dog_id, datetime, and status, where user_id and dog_id are foreign keys referencing the User and Dog entities, respectively. This setup allows an Applicant to apply to adopt a specific Dog by creating an Adoption record, which stores the details of the adoption request, including the applicant's information, the dog's details, the date and time of the application, and the current status of the adoption. Admins manage these adoption records by updating statuses as applications are processed.
